The Paulist House of Mission & Studies
Dear Friends,

Something new is happening in the nation’s capital! With the help of God and people like you, we are building a new Paulist House of Mission & Studies in Washington, D.C. on the land where Paulists have resided for more than a century.

This new, right-sized building, a short walk from the Catholic University of America, will be a home to those who seek to serve you. Not only is this facility close to the campus where our seminarians receive their intellectual formation, it will be built to foster prayer, mission, community life, study, and healthy living.

As a place of mission, the building will be home to various Paulist ministries that have a positive influence across the American church and culture. The house will be in close proximity to those active in the national Church and U.S. government.

With state-of-the-art livestreaming technology, the new House of Mission and Studies will be able to connect with people around the world, fostering conversation, learning, and understanding for all involved. This will make it possible for our missionary society to have another powerful tool for reaching out and engaging with the wider Church and American peoples.

Above all else, this will be a place of welcome to all, especially to our neighbors, our collaborators and associates near and far — and you, our treasured benefactors. This building will allow us, once again, to offer our classic Paulist hospitality.

I invite you to consider playing a key role in this newest branch of the Paulist family tree. Through this booklet, learn more about this exciting project and find ways you can support our mission — and the Paulist seminarians and novices who will become your future Paulist priests and missionaries.

Landings International, from Paulist Reconciliation Ministries, helps parishes welcome inactive Catholics who want to take another look at the Church. The program trains lay people to reach out to those who have been away and are seeking a safe place to share their stories. To learn more, please visit LandingsIntl.org.

The Paulist Fr. Ellwood Kieser Media Center

The Paulist Fr. Ellwood Kieser Media Center will be a broadcast studio for the use of the Paulist Fathers, seminarians and novices based in Washington, D.C. It is being named in memory of Paulist Fr. Ellwood “Bud” Kieser (1929 – 2000), the Emmy Award-winning founder of Paulist Productions.

Paulist Evangelization Ministries

Paulist Evangelization Ministries provides user-friendly programs and webinars for Catholic dioceses, parishes, and individuals. Among, PEM’s signature programs are:

- The Journey / El Camino, which helps participants deepen their personal relationship with Jesus. In small groups, participants come to share their experiences and grow together in their faith. Booklets are available in both English and Spanish for adults. To learn more, please visit pemdc.org/TheJourney.

- Living the Eucharist, which helps revitalize parish life through a more profound experience of Sunday Mass. It helps the entire parish — adults, teens, and families — grow in their Catholic faith and live more fully as missionary disciples of Jesus. To learn more, please visit LivingTheEucharist.org.
